Summary of Course

This subject will focus on research on the social and emotional development of students with highly advanced intellectual potential. Current educational and psychological concerns regarding the incidence of underachievement, lack of motivation, and depression among gifted students will be examined, as will the implications of these concerns for educators and parents of gifted children. The subject will examine the influence of personal variables, including motivation, self-esteem, friendships and attitudes towards school and study, on the translation of high potential into high performance. Teaching strategies and class and school structures, counselling and other influences, which facilitate or impede gifted students' development of positive social attitudes, emotional growth, academic achievement and supportive peer relationships will be critically analysed.

The main ways in which the course has changed since last time as a result of student feedback

4. RATIONALE FOR THE INCLUSION OF CONTENT AND TEACHING APPROACH

Understanding the social-emotional characteristics and needs of gifted students requires strong theoretical knowledge and the capacity to apply this understanding appropriately and effectively in the practical design of appropriate interventions for these gifted students. The teaching, learning, and assessment activities in this course are designed to be relevant to participants' experience and to provide opportunities to develop the requisite theoretical knowledge and associated practical skills. This foundation should enable participants to critically evaluate research and practice and to design effective intervention programmes and strategies, whilst convincingly articulating the rationale behind their views, choices, and actions.

5. TEACHING STRATEGIES

- participants are encouraged to develop study groups where feasible, to use flexible grouping, with individual, paired, and small group cooperative learning to reinforce the importance of teamwork in an educational context and to address varying teaching and learning goals;
- online teaching including a variety of lecture notes, audios, videos, or online lectorials where possible to reinforce a range of teaching strategies to foster interest, engagement, and support learning;
- structured occasions for reviewing prior knowledge and understandings;
- opportunities for online dialogue and discussion, allowing students the opportunity to demonstrate their capacity to communicate, analyse and evaluate content and strategies;
- engagement in analytical, dialogic, and evaluative discourse in an online forum to develop understanding of the social-emotional issues experienced by gifted students in today's educational contexts;
- reflection on learning to allow students to critically analyse and evaluate practices and issues.

These activities will occur in an online environment that is supportive and inclusive of all learners.

Course Expectations

Students are expected to read the assigned readings, view all online resources and announcements, work through each topic each week or faster and complete the assessment tasks by the due dates.

Assessment Details

Assessment 1: Reading responses: 2000 words, 40% Due March 31st 5pm

Readings: Read all required readings and choose four required readings from the list of required readings associated with the main topics in the course. Provide an introductory paragraph clearly outlining and justifying the chosen readings/topics.

Structure: The reading response will be organised around the 6Rs framework, so will involve 1) Reading, 2) Reviewing, 3) Reflecting, 4) Questioning, 5) Responding, and 6) Referencing the four chosen readings. Details of this will be provided online in Moodle.

Response: Read the reading and Review key content or issues or research in the reading that are relevant to your educational context. Reflect on how the identified content of the reading could support changes in your own and/or your school's practice? Specifically, Respond to each chosen reading and associated topic by analysing, evaluating, and synthesising the research evidence in the reading in relation to the social and emotional needs of gifted students and the implications for teachers, students, parents, and practice in supporting gifted students in your own educational context. What questions arose for you after reading this reading?

Format: Presentation will be in the format of your choice that fits with your learning preferences e.g., graphic organiser, written essay with headings, or other relevant format that is consistent across all four reading responses.

Referencing: You only need to reference the required reading that you are responding to at the beginning of each response, because these responses are mainly based on the reading and your experiences and expertise. Other references within the body of the responses are optional, unless you include other research to support your narrative. If you do use additional sources use APA referencing style and include a reference list at the end.

Assessment feedback sheet or rubric to be inserted at end of assignment: See the assessment feedback sheet or rubric for more specific guidelines for the assignment. Insert the assessment feedback sheet or rubric below at the end of your assignment before submission so it can be used to provide feedback. A rubric is being developed and may be available in Moodle to use to guide this assignment, support your learning, and to insert in place of the feedback sheet.
